- Decentralisation describes a process of local school governance through community participation.
- Community participation leads to improvements in school academic performance.
- PTAs and SMCs are the vehicle for community participation.

SMC mediation:
- The SMC ensures that the education policy is translated into a community policy for children's education and development.
- The SMC also identifies and prioritises the specific problems facing children's education and development.
- The SMC is an inclusive decision-making body, which represents all sections of the community.
- The SMC can also act as a reference body for the district education authority.
